Skyrim creation kit expor facegen d

original poster here. I was able to understand part of this mystery. :) However, there are some bad news, but I will share the good news before. in order to replace the head of a npc (custom mesh, hair, war paint and all), you will need wyre bash and creation kit. 1) in wyre bash, change 3dnrc. esp to an esm file. (express yourself). 2) also in wyre bash, add 3DNPC.esp as a master to the custom follower .esp file you want to use. save the changes and ocire. 3) open the creation kit and load the custom follower .esp file whose face you want to use. 4) move to the object window and locate the 3dnpc whose face/body you want to replace. For example, if you want to replace the zora face, under the actors, go north race, go to female, and on the right side there should be a list of names. zora3dnpc will be one of them. double-click zora3dnpc or any npc you want to edit. this should open an editing window. 5) in this editing window, locate the tab traits. on the bottom left, there should be an option called basic actor with a scrolling window below. use the custom follower actor base you want to use. In my case, I tested with misha from the girls of skyrim mod. misha is memorized with the aaamisha actor base, so I selected this as the option in the zora actor base. 6) Click the box or strokes which is on the bottom left corner. Click the box or treat so that it is no longer checked. 7) make sure to restore the 3dnpc item to its customized.you click the Use Traits option, set the 3DNPC item like the custom follower, and we don't want it. In the Traits window, in the middle, there should be a scrolling window down labeled Voice. In the case of Zora, make sure the item is ZoraFairchildVoice. 8) Save the changes, press OK and exit the Edit window. 9) Go back to the object window, select the newly modified 3DNPC. (In this example, Zora3DNPC). Make sure the 3DNPC is highlighted and press Ctrl+F4. This should export the data. 10) Save your changes and exit the Creation Kit. 11) Now you need to replace FaceGen and FaceTint data in 3DNPC folders with FaceGen and FaceTint data from the custom follower. By that I mean .nif and .ddds files. Rename the .nif and .ddds files of the custom follower, so the number corresponds to the corresponding ID of the 3DNPC you have modified and replace 3DNPC files with those of the custom follower. 12) Finally, we must return 3DNPC to a file esp. Open Wyre Bash and do so. Whew. It's all over. The custom esp follower should now also act as a plugin that patches the 3DNPC master file, changing the 3DNPC face. I managed to do it successfully for Zora and Larkspur. However, I hit a deer. When I try to change another 3DNPC (i.e.:Amalee,) with the same method as above and a different custom follower esp, somehow collides with the previous changes I made to Zora's face, and both Zora and Amalee end up looking like a Lovecraftian nightmare.I don't understand why this is happening, or because the two costumes follow the esps changes are in conflict with each other (like the two esp work well separately, but not together). Somehow they both change the Northern female tri-file (when I changed Zora's face, I also changed his race in the North, to match the custom follower) in 3DNPC? If a more advanced modder would be able to weigh in and help you understand what happened, which would be great. In both cases, I hope this will help some people. :) If something is unclear, let me know, and I would be happy to clarify.
